SHERI JOHNSTON

The Low Down to Hull & Back News

Such a unique photo in so many ways, from the nature of the event to the timing and angle required to capture the 3D-like effect on the skier's wake. A touch on the dark side, but still very nice contrast between skier, fence, water and snow. Photo was given appropriate prominence on front page. Incredible shot, Sheri.

Perfect lighting conditions and excellent focus, but most importantly I can feel the cold just looking at this picture. (Literally shivered when I saw the breath coming out of the horse's nose.)

You can never go wrong with your own take on hockey's most famous photograph. A clear, colourful and high-drama picture. Would be nice to see the ball, but degree of difficulty to do so in this particular case is a mitigating factor.
